is the Jew Anerbach. The dramatic poet, Mosenthal, fills a foremost rank; and the poems of the Jew Beck have become household words in parts of Germany. We might fill whole pages with the enumeration of eminent schol-lars of the Jewish faith in all branches of science and literature who within the last thirty years have flourished in Germany. But enough has been stated to bear out the position taken

We now come to the last point, on which we wish to make a remark. There is no doubt that the trade in old clothes and oranges is going out of the hands of the Jews. We are, however, not so sure that it is for want of aptitude, being surpassed therein by the Irish, as Mr. Gilbert believes. We believe this is the gratifying effect of the educational efforts which have been made for a number of years in the London Jewish community. The reflecting and benevolent have long been alive to the precariousness of these street trades, and have striven by every means in their power to supersede either altogether peculiar to it or in which it and more honorable occupations. There have excels. We are not angels, but devils neither. prenticing and loan societies, day and evening schools, all tending to raise the moral tone among the masses, and to facilitate among them other pursuits less calculated to lead into temptation those engaged in them. The decline of the trades referred to among the Jews, far from picted; and such has Mr. William Gilbert, in being a subject of regret, is rather a matter of The London Jews," represented us. We congratulation, and should serve as an encourredially thank him for this. He has held up agement to continue the efforts made by communal philanthropists for the promotion of spread over the whole globe, we can aver that trifling with the name of God is not one of their characteristics. In those countries in which the largest masses of the Jewish people are settled, a judicial oath is viewed with extraordinary awe and reverence, and a Jew not rarely, even in a just cause, submits to serious inconvenience and pecuniary losses rather than the stage Jew, dirty, hunchbacked, and generally ragged, and a coarse uncombed head and long tangled hair, calling everybody "my tear," and speaking the most villainous English, and whose principal mental characteristic appears to be absence of truth and honesty. We have then the grand type, invented—and we make use of the word advisedly—by Mr. Disraell, who appears to have studied according are settled, a judicial oath is viewed with extraordinary awe and reverence, and a Jew not rarely, even in a just cause, submits to serious rather to mere hard study than to any superior mental capacity, is not in unison with the opinion of those who are well acquainted with the Far fewer education, and University College has, from the time the land on which it was built was given by Sir Isaac Goldsmit to the present day, been the favorite resort of the Jewish scholars; and when a boy shows any particular intellect he is generally sent there to study. It has thus with-in its walls nearly the whole of the ability of or any other marring leatures, it is for us to try to remove them; and this our community will strive to do, to the best of their abilities. better description than we might have imagined from the unscrupulous nature of his business transactions, and he seems to treat his family with far greater respect and affection than we might have anticipated.

The last of these alone bears any resemblance to the Jew we meet in real life, and he is far more rare than might have been imagined. He is also less frequently to be met with than he was thirty years since; his Gentile brethren in the profession, being more active and considerably less conscientious, have infringed greatly on his profits. After all, the art and mystery of extortionate money-lending appears to be by no means so lucrative as might be supposed. Experience proverbially makes fools wise, and may a young spendthrift gets by practice to be amore expert rogue than the professor himself them retain it by practice and study. If the numerical proportion of scholastic distinctions should be in favor of the Jews, we are confident that this can only be due to superior capacities.

Then, again, without in any way questioning the degree of intelligence acribed by Mr. Gilbert to the English Jews, yet we feel impelled, in the interest of truth, to dispute the comparative eminence which he assigns to them. No doubt the Jews of England infinitely excel those of the East in education and general intelligence. But this commany a young spendtric proportion of scholastic distinctions, have infringed greatly on his profits. After all, the art and mystery of extertionate money-lending appears to be by no means so lucrative as might be supposed. Experience proverbially makes fools wise, and by supplementary notes, or by French, talian, and Spanish renderings—less in the way of criticism than of illustrating the sense and meaning of every word. The whole work is written in so brief a style, that in after times doubt the Jews of England infinitely excel those of the East in education and general intelligence. But this commany a young spendtric profits. After all, the art and mystery of extertionate money-lending appears to be by no means so lucrative as might be supposed. Experience proverbially makes fools wise, and by supplementary notes, or by French, talian, and Spanish renderings—less in the work and the difficult passages now plains the words and the difficult passages in the made use of the writings of others. CHAPTER III.

Water in casks from ponds and rivers is apt to acquire, after a time, a putrid and offensive smell, which renders it disgusting and even dangerous. An effacacious remedy is to mix with it a little coarsely powdered, well-calcined charcoal, or, still better, charred bones, to stir well, and then strain or filter. When the quantity of charcoal is sufficient, the water is immediately disinfected. It results from Lowitz's further experiments that sulphuric acid greatly assists the action of the charcoal, and also allows the dose to be diminished by nearly two-thirds, which is a great advantage in long sea voyages. Three pounds four ounces of putrid water quire four ounces and a half of powdered charcoal for their complete purification, whilst by adding thirty-four drops of sulphuric acid to the same quantity of water, an ounce and a half of charcoal suffices. The sulphuric acid need cause no apprehension, because the quantity is too small to produce any injurious effects, and it is, moreover, absorbed by the charcoal itself. A good precaution is to char the inside of the water-

Under whatever circumstances water is evaporated, the resulting vapors mingle with the atmosphere, which therefore always contains more or less water in the state of elastic fluid. The quantity is in proportion to the tempera-ture, whatever be the density of the air. Thus, it is capable of holding much more vapor in mer than in winter; and during hard frosts, the transparent air is as dry as it can be with-out being desiccated by artificial means. The hailstones, still falling, cool still further, and, passing through clouds, freeze the watery particles which there attach themselves to their particles which there attach themselves to their surface, forming coats of greater or less thickness, and increasing their size, sometimes very considerably, as we occasionally experience to our cost. Towards the close of the summer of 1834, I saw the city of Padua unroofed by a hailstorm. On breaking a hailstone, these coats are quite perceptible, while the primitive nucleus sometimes affects a crystalline form.

The efficacy of mineral springs on the human economy, and especially the different effects of different springs, have scarcely been accounted for by chemical analysis. Courses of treatment by "the waters" are, therefore, in great mea-

Hydrology is an inexhaustible subject. Water is useful when it rises—take only the phenomena of capillarity; useful when it falls to its horizontal position—witness its employment in levelling. It petrifies and preserves objects in a bed of stone. It eats away and deposits rocks. It hollows out and garnishes caves. Happily such waters do not convert the entrails of those who drink them (as was once believed) into concrete and plaster. Water works most of the changes on the surface of the globe, lowering hills, raising valleys, filling up estuaries, creating deltas at the mouths of rivers, undermining cliffs, and preparing even the bed of the sea for the use of living creatures at its first uprising. HOLLAND. There is, in Arnheim, an old, fantastical looking dwelling, the original owner of which was a Jew merchant, and he erected the house out of pure revenge. His coffers were so well replepished that he was at a loss how to employ his superfluous cash. At last he hit upon a fancial expedient. He determined to upon a fanciful expedient. He determined to make a pavement before his residence of large massive plates of silver, and to surround it with an ornamental chain of the same costly material. an ornamental chain of the same costly material. Before carrying his plan into effect, however, it behooved him to obtain the sanction of the authorities. These worthies, however, void of sympathy, set their faces against a proposition which might have compelled them to increase the strength of the town guard. Enraged at their non-compliance, Moses determined to punish them. He ordered his dwelling, situated in the same control of the co negative, whether they be het or cold. There is no exception to the rule. the man-made Sunday of the first? For fifteen long centuries Christianity has chosen to set aside the Sabbath instituted by God himself on Sinai for all generations as a sign for ever, celebrated by Moses, the prophets, Jesus, the Apostles, their disciples, and all primitive Christians, and to accept instead thereof the Deis Selis of the Pagans, the day of Baal, or as cunningly translated, the Lord's-day, as sanctioned, if not instituted, by the Emperor Constantine, and supported by councils and legisla-tures. * * Since there exists no analogy Since there exists no analogy whatever between the origins and sanctions of the seventh and first-day festivals, no application DECIDE IN FAVOR whatever can be made of any of the divine enactments bearing on the former to the purely human regulations defining the latter. * * *
But if it should nevertheless be deemed expedione hundred degrees centigrade, water passes through three different states. It is first a solid, then a liquid, and lastly an elastic fluid. The first is generally known as ice, the latter as the tides, it is a type of periodicity and reciprocity. people to which it was first given, and not draw a picture the colors of which are entirely bor-So useful and well-known a thing as water necessarily lends itself to popular and figurative phraseology. When an argument won't hold water, it shows want of tact to press it too close. Sabbath went to see his dying mother, he had beyond this. But not only the plain word of the Bible, the Rabbis, its authorative interpreters, have defined and explained the Sabbath in a manner totally wet blankets overcast the circles they frequent, which we suppose he calls "the worst form of Judaism." We do not deny that there are subtleties among the Rabbinical regulations for the right keeping of the Sabbath day. But amidst the hair splitting distinctions made, and the various aggravations of the Sabbath law introduced by some Rabbis, and underneath the countless multitude of observances over-spreading the Sabbath law, and the numerous tences which edge it in, there lie great and glorious principles, which have never been lost sight of given bulk of air to hold vapor diminishes with the temperature. Cold squeezes the atmosphere, just as the hand squeezes a sponge. And according to the height where the contraction takes place, according to the quantity of vapor concentrated, according to the resulting increase of life, and increase of poor, all commodities of life, and increase of poo there existed in the capital of Judea museums. there existed in the capital of Judea museums, public libraries, picture galleries, and other refining and ennobling exhibitions, the Sabbath would have been precisely the day which would have been recommended by the religious authorities as the fittest for visiting them, and that all of them would have been thrown open on that day. What we further know from the principles laid down by these very Rabbis is, that had there at the time existed in Judea special associations for the promotion of intellectual or moral objects, and even of innocent amusements, the Sabbath would have been the day for their principal meetings. Every kind of labor in the execution of a religious or moral precept was distinctly allowed. Whenever life or even health was concerned, the transgression of every

Sabbath law was not only permitted, but even enjoined; and an attentive perusal of the Sab-batical institutions by the Rabbis shows, as they rightly apprehended, that the fourth commandment does not so much forbid labor as produc tive labor. The cessation from all kinds of abor on the Sabbath day was not an object, but rather a means. It was the Divine will, as the Rabbis rightly understood it, that man, carried away by the inordinate desire of accumulating wealth, and consumed by the wasting craving after riches, to which he ordinarily devotes all his energies, and which, if not checked, become the ruling and which, if not checked, become the ruling passion of his life, even as they suppress and destroy every higher aspiration in life, should from time to time pause in this maddening career—should have leisure to look backwards and forwards, upwards and downwards, into himself and others. For this purpose there was no more effectual means than the compulsory interception of assessment to the compulsory interception of assessment which increase his profits, or if he renounced his sh in it, so as not to have his attention absorbed by worldly anxieties. A Scotch Sabbath, such as depicted by the Times, and such as is undoubtedly clamored for by many a cierical zeniot, was and is, therefore, a sheer impossibility among the Jewish people. Far, far from its being the gloomiest, the Sabbath is among them the happiest and most cheerful day in the whole week, devoted to all kinds of innocent sion of the Committee, enjoyments, friendly intercourse, family meetings, and festive repasts. * * Judaism has no share whatever in the Sunday Sabbath; and if the Church has chosen to encumber Christ-endom with a number of most burdensome, active part in this measure. Everything tends to show that the Hebrew community of Naples is now constituted on a solid basis.

The Berlin Gazette states, that a law is still in force, forbidding the hiring of foreign Jewish servants without having previously obtained permission from the ministry. This law dates from the year 1847.

Having heard to-day for the first time that the Grover and Baker Sewing Machine Company claim the first Premium on Sewing Machines and Sewing Machine Work at the Oregon State Fair. held at Salem, 1864, and being one of the Committee on Sewing Machines and Sewing Machine Work at said Fair, I feel it my duty to make, and take pleasure in making, the following state-

Three (if not all) of the Committee were selected by a Mr. Johnson, (an employe of the Grover & Baker Company,) and after a careful examination of the Sewing Machines and Machine Work concentrated, according to the quantity of the concentrated, according to the resulting increase of its specific gravity, it is converted into cloud, fog or rain.

Dew also depends on the cooling of the air, only however to a moderate degree, and during only however to a moderate degree, and during the night. The dew on plants is partly derived from the moisture which they have themselves which are now axhaled. If a waterproof cloth is laid on a grass plot, it will receive much less dew than the grass does. Experiment also shows that dew contains salts and extractive matters which have been supplied by vegetable exhalation.

MARY MILLER.

We, the undersigned, a Committee appointed at the Fourth Annual Fair of the Oregon State Agricultural Society to examine and report aport the merits of different Sewing Machines on exhibition, have endeavored to perform the duty with care and impartiality. In view of all the facts we have decided to award the First Premium the Grover & Baker Machine, and the Second to the minicipality concerning the purchase of a walled-in piece of ground for a cemetery. It will cost 5,000 francs, which sum is already covered by voluntary subscriptions. Baron Adolph de Rothschild has, as usual taken an while the other does not. We have, however, no the Florence. The principal fact influencing our decision in awarding the First Premium to the former, was the circumstance that it embroidered. hesitancy in saying that both have great merits and we recommend them both to the patronage of the Oregon public.

Gleich binter bem großen jubifchen Begrabnigplage fliegen wir in füboftlicher Richtung ein wenig aufwarte und ftanben bald por ben Grabern ber Propheten. Wenn ichon ein Bermeilen auf einem gewöhnlichen Friedhofe in uns bas Gefühl ber Comache und ber Berganglichteit mach ruft, bas langite Menfchenleben uns ba jum Mugenblide jufammenfchrumpft, une bann nichts groß erfcheint als bie Ewigfeit bes tunftigen Dafeine, wie viel machtiger treten bicfe Gefühle bervor, wenn man an Orten wandelt, wo die Großen und Geehrten ber Erbe ruben. Wer in ber Welt mar größer als die jüdischen Propheten, wer sieht erhabener, ebler, würdiger da als diese, und doch auch sie traf das Loos des Zeitlichen. Indessen ihr Name ist geblieben und es lebt kein Gebildeter auf dem Erbenrunde, ber fie nicht tennt, fie nicht verebrt. Das Grabgewolbe ber Propheten wird ichon von 30fephus in feinen Rachrichten von ber Belagerung burch Titus ermahnt. Er nennt es, jebenfalls feiner eigenthumlichen Conftruttion halber, bas I a ubenbaus, ein Rame, ber fich noch jest rechtfer-tigt. Die Grabnifchen find barin nämlich wie bie Soblen in einem Taubenhaufe angebracht, fie bilben in zwei Reiben, beren eine über ber anberen, einen Salbfreis. Jebe einzelne Rifche ift enge und läuft horizontal in die Felswand. Das Gange ift ein unterirbifder, im Rerne bes Raltfelfens ausgebohlter Bau. Die größeren und fleineren Gomader, Die nach verschiebenen Richtungen weit in bie Telfen hineingeben, machen baraus ein mabres Labyrinth. Dit Rabbi Ifrael Wolf befuchte ich bie Soble von Ralba Schabua. Man fommt querft in einen großen Borbof, an beffen Eingang ein großer Baum gepflanzt ift, zur Linken ift ein in den Felsen gehauenes großes Biered. PAPACY AND CIVILIZATION.

Reading the late Encyclical letter of the Pope, the head of the Roman Catholic Church; will not improve the temper of the modern reformer. It would appear that the Pope is desirous of reinstating the medieval period for the present; that he is opposed, religiously, to the enlightenment of the age; in fact he says so in so many words; that the civil law must be abolished, and all Catholics must look to him as supreme ruler, Vice-regent of the Almighty. A more presumptuous and bigoted document has never been presented to the world than this same Encyclical letter, which is calculated politically to exercise not alone an effect upon the present condition of Europe, but upon the temporal power of the church, as its intemperate head has promulgated such an amount of heresy to common sense and the progress of the world. Looking upon the condition of the Papal authority, politically speaking, we can only deem this ment as the last fulmination of an expiring The Pope insults freedom, education. vil and political rights, the very power of the numerous sovereigns who reign in Catholic urope, and all in a feeble attempt to support his temporal power. He denounces free ols and the cause of public education, abuses electoral suffrage, and places his church at the head of all things temporal and piritual. He insults the progress of the age, and insolently dictates his dogmas. It needed but this last straw to "break the camel's back," to expose the hypocrisy of the Catholicity and exhibit to the world how intolerant the scarlet lady has become. The whole history of the great and potent power wielded by the Popes, of the supremacy of the Catholic Church—all are ruthlessly swept aside by the present document, which enunciates doctrines not alone exponents of bigotry and superstition, but actual the Bible in the Public Schools. The rule is absurdity. No religious or temporal power as follows: ever committed an equal act of intemperate folly as has Pius the IXth. Religiously, morally, and politically he has committed an error which the present unites to condemn, and the future will sustain the action of the present. No greater heresy was ever promulgated than the Pope's assault on the civil rights of the community; no greater error than his Quixotic attempts to combat the advance of enlightenment, liberality and civilization. He arrogates to himself temporal and spiritualistic powers which are repugnant to the age, the assumption of which must necessarily create political differences, and embroil Europe in civil war. The Hebrew people were the first to experience the violation of the political faith of Pio Nino. A bigot by nature, a bigot by practice, a dissembler, and now an arrogant autocrat—that is, he ys to be one; but fortunately his power for od or ill has been somewhat circumscribed of ate, and feeling that loss of power, he takes his revenge in words. Like his Bulls, the Encyclical letter can excite but a political influence, benefits The THA SAVED-YEARN TYAS

From this letter the public derive considerate intelligence us to the purposes of the Roman his intelligence us to the purposes of the from an Cathalic Church which cannot fail but be an tic to every principle or free government If we have open foes in rebeldom, we now know the have an insidious foe in the Catholic Church the public is to guard against its machina tions, the future alone can tell. "Those the da desire to destroy they first make mad," is illy exemplified in the suicidal conduct of the one. In Protestant Europe but little ill is pated from this fulmination, but where tholicity exists its oppressive hand weighs heaviest. No one can foretell its effects. The London Times in reviewing this document,

The Consistorial Allocations, the End and other Apostolical letters of Pope Pius IX. contain the condemnations to the formal wording of which he has now obtained the assent of the Roman Gardinals. In "Dolore hand mediceri," "Gravissimas," "Acerbissimum," "Quanto conficiamum mestore," and other mournful productions, His Holiness has exhausted the world of modern heresy. The first section is devoted to the speculative errors of Pantheism, Naturalism, and absolute Rationalism, and on these cts the Pope takes the ground common to thodox Churches. In speaking of "moderall orthodox Churches. In speaking of "moderate Rationalism" His Holiness approaches more nearly the points on which the Church of Rome nearly the points on which the Church of Rome differs from the cest of the world, and amid other matters we are told that it is un error to hold that "the decrees of the Apostolic See and of the Roman congregations letter the free progress of science." From the Roman point of view this condemued proposition is undoubtedly untrue, since at Rome nothing is dignified open to the public.

with the name of science unless it be in accordance with those very decrees. What the Papal teaching on this subject is, may be learnt from the next article, which conde nus the proposition that "The method and principles by which the old scholastic doctors cultivated theology are no longer suitable to the demands of the age and the progress of science." Undoubtedly, if the examination of the Scriptures and the inquiries into the history and teachings of the Church are to be conducted as they were six hundred years ago, then the student will stand in no fear of the Pope or the Congregation, and may willingly subscribe to the principle which it appears was given to the world about a year ago in Tuas libenter." And so of science in general. Who need say that Rome fetters the human mind when he has, like every true son of the Church, acknowledged it to be an error "that philosophy neither can, nor ought, to submit to authority?" All that Rome will admit to be legitimate science is a mere ungeneralizing record of physical facts. All political or historical research is suspected, and morals must be left exclusively to the guardian-ship of the Church. If a student ventures on the forbidden ground, he is condemned as a heretic before he has time to become a philosopher. Many discussions have been held between Protestants and Liberal Roman Catholics with respect to the tenets of the Roman Church respecting the spiritual state of those without its pale. On this subject the Pope speaks boldly; for not only is the opinion reprobated that every man is free to embrace and profess the religion he shall believe true guided by the light of reason, but it is denied that "Protestantism is another form of the same true religion in which it is possible to be pleasing to God equally as in the Catholic Church." The Pope goes near to doom all Protestants to perdition, for Error XVII. is thus expressed :- " Saltem bene sperandum est de æterna illorum omnium salute qui in vera Christi ecclesia nequaquam versantur." After this we need not wonder at finding Socialism, Communism, Bible Societies, and Clerico-Liberal Societies denounced together as " pests" which have been frequently rebuked. With the rest of the catalogue we as a Protestant people have little to do. The errors therein condemned relate to the status of the Church in Roman Catholic countries, and by their condemnation the Pope in fact asserts the most complete right of governing the priesthood, educating the people, and repressing any religion but his own. If the principles here asserted by the Pope are to be acknowledged, it is difficult to see how even a Concordat can be maintained by the civil power. To what engths the Roman Court carries its doctrines, even at this moment of peril, may be seen from the concluding articles, which refer to the errors of modern liberalism. It is an error to say that it is no longer necessary that the Catholic religion shall be held as the only true religion of the State, to the exclusion of all other modes of worship. It is an error to say that it has een wisely provided by the law in some coun-ries called Catholic that emigrants shall enjoy the free exercise of their own worship. Finally, to grown everything, error the eightieth is that the Roman Pontiff can and ought to reconcile himself to and agree with progress, liberal ism, and modern civilization." Such is the published creed of the Roman Court in these the last days of French protection. If any thing can be won by such audacious intolerance the Pope, of course, may hope for it; but such foolhardiness will seem to most men very differmerited misfortune.

THE BIBLE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS .- The Board of Education of this city and county have adopted a rule, permitting the reading of "The morning exercises of each department of the several schools may, at the option of the principals and of the pupils, commence with the reading of the Sacred Scriptures, without note or comment; and the reading may be followed by the Lord's Prayer, repeated by the teacher alone, or by appropriate singing."

This regulation cannot fail but prove advantageous, inasmuch as the reading of the Holy Scriptures will direct the minds of the scholars to the necessity of cherishing a veneration for religious subjects. It now rests with the principals and pupils of the various schools, whether they will avail themselves of the privilege accorded by the Board of Education.

MASKED BALL.-The grand masquerade ball announced to be given under the auspices of the Eureka Social Club, and for which extensive preparations have been making for some weeks past, will take place on Wednesday evening next, at Platt's Hall. The occasion is looked forward to with much interest, as it will undonbtedly be one of the most brilliant affairs of the season. The assemblage is expected to be of a very select character; and everything has been done to render the event one of universal pleasure and enjoyment to all participants. OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

[From the Resident Correspondent of THE HEBREW.] NEW YORK, January 13, 1865.

EDITOR HEBREW :- Nothing of any special importance has transpired during the past few days to agitate the Jewish mind of this city. With the exception of a few matters of pleasure, such as concerts, balls, parties, etc., we are all in a state of somnolence, as it were, and are lying in wait for anything in the way of excitement or otherwise, to arouse us from our peaceful condition. The Jewish people as a class, although averse to war or any dangerous pursuit, and proverbially a peace-loving nation, still never object to matters of gossip or scandal. Not that I would accuse them of a desire to blacken other peoples fame or character, as the word "slander" is legally and generally understood, but that they always love to be busy in some discussion, and that they in a certain degree, are pleased if they possess some amusing or entertaining theme to furnish food for conversation in their parlors and salons. No people are so eager and so quick to learn of marriage engagements and of their dissolution, of any honors acquired by members of their community, of the wealth and position of this or that family, than those of our race. At least such is the fact in this city, and I suppose it is the same elsewhere. Every Israelite here almost knows what his neighbor does, not because our co-religionists are an association of Paul Prys." not because we are over inquisitive, but on account of a more favorable and praiseworthy reason.

The Jews, although scattered as they are in all directions of the compass, are, nevertheless, bound together by some invisible yet powerful link, a chain which years of suffering and of oppression has not succeeded in breaking, and along which every feeling, every passion which agitates one of the community, passes with ask for a small space in your valuable paper for lightning speed, and communicates a certain impression upon the rest. A sort of telegraph wire, as it were, by means of which every one can communicate to his neighbour what he thinks or feels. It is on this account, that the Jews are such a charitable people that they found so many benevolent societies and institutions, and that however close some may be in other matters, still when the plaintive cry of the orphan or the widow is heard, we find them ever ready to loosen their purse strings and distribute their alms with a generous hand. And their sable faces, and carried everything by as they are ever willing to appreciate and alleviate the wants of the less fortunate of their race, our co-religionists also are quickly cognizant of any affair of gossip which may arise among their number, and freely indulge in its recountal among their private parties or sociables. Such incidents as those relating to the opera singer, Harris, and the Bernardi case, of ent from the true courage which supports un- which I gave you an account a few weeks ago, ng form the subject of debate and conversation among the Israelites of this, or other cities wherever such scenes may be laid. A man with a bad character, or one who commits an imprudent act, is soon discovered and known to all of his faith, if he should happen to be a Jew. While on the other hand, if an Israelite excels in any particular branch of art or science, or has any claims to intellectual merit, he also reaps the reward he deserves, and is quickly distinguished and noted among his brethren. Such has been the case with almost every co-religionist in this city, that has in any way excelled in professional life; and although, as estimated by recent census, there are over 50,000 Jews in New York, still there scarcely happens anything to one of them, without it is known to a greater or less extent by the others. The musical portion of the city has lately been thrown into a somewhat wild state of excitement by the performance of a pianist, who made his debut on Saturday last, at the classical concerts of Theodore Thomas. This artist whose name is Carl Wolfsohn, is a co-religionist, and has been resident for some time in Philadelphia, where he has attained a celebrity Upon an invitation he came to New York and performed on the occasion referred to, one of Beethoven's most difficult sonatas, and a tranription of Robert le Diable by Liszt, with such skill and feeling, and betrayed such a perfect knowledge of his instrument, that he was the recipient of several encores, and was lauded by the press without exception. This is but another example of the honor and renown which our co-religionists are attaining in the course of their professional pursuits. It is an old saying, that if a Jew applies himself to any thing, whether in mercantile or professional matters, he is always sure to succeed; and our past history and the present time, amply prove

Quite a curious incident occurred in the Supreme Court of this city, a few days ago. For a long time the attention of the people have been directed to the trial of an interesting libel suit, brought by ex-Mayor Opdyke against a noted lobby politician of Albany named Thurlow Weed. The taking of the evidence alone required fifteen days, and as a large sum was claimed for damages and as great political interests were involved, it was of course expected. that the summing up of the case would require a long time. Four of the most distinguished lawyers, Messrs. Pierrepont, Emots, Evarts and Dudley Field, were engaged in the cuase.

The argument of counsel commenced on Wednesday, continued through the next day, and on Friday Mr. Evarts proceeded to close up for the defense. He made a very long speech, for several hours, indeed, and it was verging on to 4½ P. M.; the counsel was in the most eloquent portion of his remarks, every sound was hushed throughout the court room, sound was hushed thoughout the court room, Judge, lawyers, jury, spectators and all were eagerly listening to the impressive words of the speaker, when suddenly he was interrupted and a member of the jury arose and said that he was a Jew, that his liabbath was about to commence and that he could not remain any longer in Court. The Judge ordered him to take his seat, which at first he refused to do but finally obeyed; when his Honor threatened to imprison him if he rejused, but not without adding that the Court had no power to make him break his religion, and he hoped "it would be in the papers!" Upon the advice of course the Judge finally consented to adjourn the case until the following Monday. The incident was published in every paper the part day, Salarday.) and excited no little comment in both sh and Christian circles.

Many reasons were given to account for this strange conduct on the part of this Israelite, while every one conceded that if he acted from purely religious motives, as he no doubt did. great praise was due him for his boldness. I think that in the laxity of religious principles of the 19th century, very few could be found who would brave the indignation of Court and counsel for the sake of observing their Sabbath a few minutes longer.

The ball of the Young Mens' Re-union, which vas to have been the finest terpsichorean affair of the season, took place on the evening of the 9th inst., and proved a failure in every respect, except as far as the display of toillettes were concerned, which excelled those worn on any previous occasion. The principal fault was that the hall was over crowded-about 400 couples being on a floor, capable of accommodating no more than 300.

The various lodges of the L.O. B. B. held their semi-annual elections recently. The following is a list of the officers elected, as far as I have ascertained :-

Amon Lodge No. 39-Dr. M. Mayer, President : Rev. L. Lasher, Vice-President : Jacob Ballin, Secretary; H. Raymond, Treasurer; M. Bien, Financial Secretary. Hillet Lodge No. 28, of Brooklyn-L. Long, President: L. Geuser, Vice-President; B. Schmidt, Secretary; A. Strauss, Financial Secretary: G. Haganbacher Treasurer: M. Adler, Monitor. Jericho Lodge No. 44, of Pittsburg, Pa.—Emanuel Green-wald, President; Josah Cohen, Vice-President M. Brilles, Secretary ; E. Bernstein, Treasurer. The above officers were all duly installed during the week just terminated.

Having nothing further to communicate at present, and the hour for closing the California they treated them with great cruelty at other mails having arrived, I close my letter with the places. hope that its contents will be acceptable to the many readers of your valuable journal.

PURIM FESTIVITIES.

EDITOR HEBREW: -As the feast of Esther and Hamon (Purim) is approaching, I would the purpose of reminding our young friends of the time-honored custom of masquerading, that was so successfully inaugurated last year. I had the pleasure of spending the evening at my friend D.'s, when several troupes were ushered in. The comical dressing of some, and the beautiful costumes of others, were greatly admired, and the curiosity to recognize the parties can be more easily imagined than described. But the feature of the evening were the Minstrels, who made their sudden appearance with storm. I would particularly mention the "Boornun-Boys," ten in number, with musical instruments; their arrangements were so complete. and displayed so thorough an organizationworthy the notice of the more mature professors.

The music was carefully selected and well executed; the songs also were well chosen, and peautifully sung. I would more particularly mention the beautiful song of the "Flag of the Free," sung by the interrogator of the Company. (surnamed Heckey); also the song (parody) of "La David Boruch," by Cigar-inskie, the tamborinist; the words were mirth-provoking and the air pleasing. The wit and sayings of the Bones and the Tamborinist were rich, rare and racy, and of the first order. Their uniform was complete, representing the dandy nigger of the North; and the whole affair was a brilliant and decided success.

I hope the band will again spring into existence at the coming feast, as many a bright eye and gentle form, who heard nothing more than a recital of the entertainment last year, are making some preparation to give the troupe a hearty welcome.

TO OUR COTEMPORARIES.

WE would esteem it a special favor, if our cotemporaries abroad in quoting from our colamns would, in crediting THE HEBREW for information or extracts, prefix San Francisco, California. Whilst it is highly gratifying to us o see many articles from our columns honored by insertion in journals in Europe, it would be still more pleasing if the acknowledgment would convey that the intelligence came from the faroff shores of the Occident.

From Lower California, we learn that, owing to heavy rains and a succession of mild weather the crops promise to be very abundant—a fact which will be generally gratifying.

Several large sales of real estate have taken place the past week, and the prices obtained show unmistakably that our city is steadily progressing, both in extent and wealth.

THE JEWS IN COCHIN-CHINA

We translated some weeks ago under the above title an article from the A. I. In addition to the account we copy the following from the

We are told in an interesting work printed and published at Cochin, entitled, " British and Native Cochin, by C. A. L.," that "it appears from the native annals of Malabar, and their own traditions, that ten thousand Jews arrived on the coast about A. D. 70, shortly after the destruction of the second temple and the finst desolation of Jerusalem."

Dr. Jost, in his "History of the Israelites" Vol. V., p. 233, quotes another account of the first settling of Jews on the Malabar coast, which is derived from Jewish authorities, and states that "a severe persecution led a great number of families, after the destruction of the temple, to remove to a distant land in the East and accordingly 10,000 souls wandered from Jerusalem to India, where they were all well received by the reigning monarch. Perimal. This is said to have taken place A. M. 4250."

Dr. Jost justly remarks that as a long time ntervened, according to this statement, as to the date between the destruction of the temple and the arrival of the Jews in India, we may suppose that they came from Persia rather than Palestine, and were compelled to leave that country by a Persian, rather than a Roman persecution. Although the history of the first settlement of the Jews in India is thus involved in obscurity, yet it is evident that considerable numbers of that nation have been found in that country during many ages.

Schuds tell us, that the Great Mogul treated them with great kindness, and that the Portsguese granted them toleration at Goa, although

We learn from the work now before us, that the Cochin Jews are divided into two distinct classes, one known as the Jerusalem or White. the other as the Black Jews. The former are the descendants of the first settlers by marriage solely with one another. Their complexion is not exactly European, but it is the pale olive reshness, most nearly allied to it, and the delicate carnation of the tips of the fingers proves that no native blood flows in their veins. . . . This retention of complexion and features, for so many centuries, is truly astonishing when it is considered that the descendants of the Portuguese are generally of a darker hue than even the aborigines of the country."

The author adds. "it furnishes the strongest argument against any idea that the sun darkens the skin; and also seems to warrant some hope that the colonization of India may be effected.

it Europeans would only marry Europeans." We cannot forbear asking, is not this circumstance an additional proof that the "Jewish race is capable of living in any part of the globe," and that "the Jewish constitution can adapt itself to every climate, flourishing there even better than the original inhabitants themselves?"-See remarks of Dr. Boudin on the cosmopolitanism of the Jews, as quoted in the 'Jewish Intelligence" for Sept., 1861. p. 240. Concerning the Black Jews, our author re-

"The Black Jews may either be the descendants of early native proselytes or of individuals entitled to a bar sinister. Some few of them have a Hebrew cast of countenance, but by far the greater number are indistinguishable from the natives around. They are considered by the white Jews as an inferior race, and not of pure caste, and intermarriage between them consequently never takes place. Their customs, forms of prayer, songs, &c., are the same as those of the white Jews, but they do not observe the same strict Levitical ceremonies, and having no legitimate relationship with Hebrews in other lands, they are looked upon, and pride themselves upon being, a distinct sect." We need scarcely observe that this account of the supposed origin of the race of Black Jews differs from other theories that have been maintained by those who have endeavored to investigate the early history of that peculiar branch of the Jewish olive-tree: but as it seems that this is an opinion which prevails in Cochin itself, where many of that class of Jews reside, it is well worthy of our notice. The statement which is given concerning the great strictness of the white Jews, in keeping up the public services of the synagogue, deserves especial notice. We often find earnest and devout Jews in many places, especially in Poland, who think it a duty to join in public worship twice a day, but it seems that this is not thought to be sufficient by the Jews in Cochin.

"The Jews rise at about 5 o clock, and, after prayer and ablutions, proceed to the synagogue for public devotion. At 7, they return home, have breakfast, set about the day's business; dine between 12 and 2, and again assemble for half an hour's prayer at 3; resume their work until 6, when once again they attend the synagogue for about a half an hour, and at 9 they retire to bed. This is the routine of their weekdays. On Friday, the evening prayer commences at half-past 5, and concludes at half-past 6, and the Talmud or some other religious books are read until bed-time. On Saturday, the morning prayer continues from 6 to 9 o'clock; the afternoon from 3 to 4; and the evening, as usual, they close the Sabbath. They are very exemplary in their observance of this division of time, and rigidly correct in respect for the seventh day. The great feasts of the Passover, Pente-Islands "a long time ago." May their antici- cost, and Tabernacles, are celebrated with the most exact attention to the ritual."

As to their hope of reservation to their own land, and their disposition to consider the claims of Christianity, it is observed :-

"They do not feel that strong, active hope of speedily returning to their own land, which their brethren in Europe are never without. They firmly believe that at some future period they are to return, but state that none but the Almighty knows the time, and therefor it is idle to speculate upon its approach, and when any disposition is shown to ener into pleted it will be one of the finest synagogues in an argument about the chief tenets of their, the United States, and an ornament to our city.

The new hotel at the Encinal, Alameda, will be completed next week.

ALLIDINES LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

ASTHMA, CROUP,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary

TS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERAtive, Sudorific, Sedative, Diaphoretic and Diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. If excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the Secretions and Purifies the Blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is Warranted to Break up the most Distressing Cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It is Warranted to give entire satisfaction even in the most Confirmed cases of Consumption! It is Warranted not to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form.
It is Warranted to be Perfectly Harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active, and powerful remedy, for restoring the system. There is no Real Necessity for so many Deaths by Consumption, when Allen's Lung Halsam will prevent it, if only taken in time.
